

HOSTING AN OPEN WORLD DELEGATION

The Open World program brings current and future leaders from post-Soviet countries to the United States. Delegates complete an intensive, short-term program that relates to their professional or civic work. Observing their professional counterparts in the U.S., they get a firsthand look at the American system of democracy and free enterprise.

Rotary clubs in the United States can participate in the program, which is managed by the Open World Leadership Center and funded by Congress. Rotary districts or clubs prepare an eight-day program that's designed around an Open World civic theme, such as:

- Accountable governance
- NGO development
- Higher education and innovation
- Social issues, focusing on health care provision and social services including special education

The program emphasizes professional development, exchange, and cooperation. Key concepts include transparency, accountability, civic initiative, and volunteerism.

WHAT DOES A HOST ROTARY CLUB DO?

The host club coordinates all on-the-ground logistics and prepares a program schedule. Specifically, the host club:

1. Provides a homestay for six Open World participants and an interpreter for eight days and nights
2. Meets participants at the airport, and provides transportation between scheduled events, activities, Rotary club meetings, etc.
3. Prepares a substantive program schedule that includes professional meetings for a minimum of four full working days (32 hours), meals, cultural activities, and opportunities for participants and hosts to get to know each other and share ideas
4. Submits a final report (host narrative, final agenda, cost share form, articles, etc.) and the Expense Reimbursement Report/Request Form with corresponding materials to Rotary (both submitted by a host coordinator)

Delegates and their American hosts and presenters often stay in touch and collaborate after the visit.

WHO ARE THE OPEN WORLD PARTICIPANTS?

The group of participants includes five delegates and one facilitator. Delegates are young professionals (usually aged 23-35; sometimes 23-30) from Armenia, Azerbaijan, Georgia, Kazakhstan, Kosovo, Kyrgyzstan, Moldova, Russia, Serbia, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Ukraine. Delegates are civic leaders in the fields of health, economics, environment, education, business, local government, law, journalism,

NGOs (nongovernmental organization) and NPOs (nonprofit/not-for-profit organizations), and politics. The typical facilitator is fluent in English and has spent time in the U.S. as a student or intern.

WHAT SHOULD THE PROGRAM FOCUS BE?

The Open World Leadership Center identifies hosting themes for each program year. Your club should select a theme and build an eight-day professional development and cultural program around it. More information on each theme is available from RI. Because themes are broad, you should also specify a subtheme that can help you focus on a particular topic. Consider your club's interests and resources that are available locally. The center will do its best to match the right delegates with your choice of a theme and subtheme.

SHOULD WE HIRE AN INTERPRETER?

No. Open World will hire a professional interpreter (someone whose full-time work is interpreting and translating) for all formal program events planned for Monday through Friday. However, if you know of a professional interpreter available locally, please send a resume to RI for review. The delegation's facilitator will interpret during informal events and on weekends, evenings, and lunches.

WHAT FUNDS ARE AVAILABLE TO HOST CLUBS?
